

Together, we create exceptional workplaces. Even when those workplaces look very different from what we're used to.

Kimberly-Clark Professional strives to be your trusted partner in creating workplaces that are safe, healthy and productive. That mission has never been more important as we work together through the unprecedented challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Our number one priority is, as always, the health and safety of our extraordinary employees and loyal customers around the world. We've taken a number of aggressive actions to help minimise risk of exposure, including implementing new procedures in our mills and distribution centres to restrict visitors and ensure safe distances. We've also deployed deep-cleaning protocols, limited travel and implemented remote work wherever possible.

We're keenly aware that the world needs our products like never before. To meet this surge in demand we have significantly accelerated production and are working around the clock to ensure our products are available where and when they are needed most. At the top of the list are the heroic men and women working in healthcare and elderly care who are on the frontlines of support during the crisis.

Despite these efforts, we recognise demand for our mission-critical products may at times exceed our ability to supply them. We understand how challenging this can be, and we are doing everything within our ability to serve you during this time of extreme disruption. Our commitment to our customers and users has not wavered.

In line with our values, we have been working with our industry and community partners to determine how we can best leverage our global scale and resources to support those tasked with delivering essential care. We will share more on this in the coming days and weeks.

Thank you to our dedicated employees, customers and partners for all you are doing to help support our communities and each other. We are proud to be a part of this effort. Together we will prevail.
